AROUND THE GARDENS AND PLAZA

Torrancites of All Ages Join In Celebration of Hallowe'en

By ALICE PERKIN FA 8-5265

With yellow bows in her hair and bows on her toes, Mrs. H. E. Fagan, and her husband of 2902 Eldorado St., greeted guests as they arrived at her Halloween party.

Dressed as a French dancing girl, she entertained friends costumed as Apache dancers, Chinese folk, and even a French singer, complete with ankle-lets, dress, furs, and jeweled cigarette holder.

Around a centerpiece which displayed a black Halloween tree, a black sequined hat surrounded by black cats, and the traditional jack-o-lantern, guests were served cocktails, cheese dips and hors d'oeuvres. After dancing, they enjoyed a midnight buffet of tamales, garlic bread, three kinds of salad, coffee and religious served from a standing lady susan decorated with orange and yellow crysanthems.

Attending from our area were Mr. and Mrs. G. Capps, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gilmore, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox. There were 27 guests, all told.

Walking off with first prize for the most comical costume at the annual Halloween party held in Beverly Hills and co-hosted by Misses Elsie Oakes and Ronnie Sherman, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly, of 808 Cerise. He went as Emmett Kelly, the famous clown, and she went as a "splitting headache" with a spike through her head (made of aluminum foil), black circles under her eyes, and her face painted green. Over 50 couples attended the party.

Others attending from the area were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harstad (dressed as Vampire and a "crying ad"), and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cattle (dressed in Scottish kilts).

And still another Halloween party! This one was a neighborhood affair, co-hosted by sisters Mrs. William McDade, of 911 Felbar, and Mrs. R. L. Hagenbaugh, of 1011 Felbar. With festivities on the Hagenbaugh patio, guests were dressed in Daisy Mae hill billy attire, and entertained on the hill billy theme.

Around a centerpiece of crysanthems jutting out from a pumpkin head they were served barbecued chili dogs, homemade fudge, relishes and coffee. Couples danced and sang under the spell of the festive autumn outdoor party.

Guests included Messrs. and Mrs. G. D'Ornellas, M. Gonta, M. Galyardi, G. Truesdale, R. Beecher, W. Stroman, Frank Kelley, E. Rankin, J. Lee, L. Mohr, H. Berning, T. Brown, W. Elde, H. Hughes, and Mrs. Lillian Hagenbaugh, and Mrs. T. Myers.

A successful week end was spent by the Arthur Leighton family, of 1122 Cranbrook, inasmuch as they vacationed at Crestline and came home with an even dozen fresh trout.

Staying at the Club San Moritz in one of the mountain chalets they brought their own food and ventured out only to fish and enjoy the boat rides. The whole family enjoyed the outing, especially seven-year-old son Leigh.

Little white spooks prancing on the black background, were the clever decorations on the tallies at the Tally-Hi bridge party this last Thursday.

Held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Capps, of 2850 El Dorado, the group enjoyed the refreshments of apple crisp, topped with frothy whipped cream, and apple cider. Grinning from middle of each table were the middle of each table were centerpieces of lighted jack-o-lanterns.

Those attending were Mrs. L. Dyer, Mrs. Jack Klinging, Mrs. William Pipkin, Mrs. C. R. Zabrowski, Mrs. Rodney Clark, Mrs. Kenneth Perkin, Mrs. Joe Peters.

Entertaining their friends with an evening of games were Orlean, 10; Barbara, 12; and Oren, McKnight, 13, of 827 Petronella.

After the games the children enjoyed refreshments of snowy cake topped with cherry icing and cold lemonade.

Those attending were Terry Taylor, Richard Augustine, Howard Auckenback, Nina Lally, Judy Sherwood, and Susan McClinnen.

pin-the-nose game, the clothes-pin game and a treasure hunt. Winners were Sherry Parker who won a Halloween cut-out book; Sheila Johnson, who won a picture puzzle; and Coleen McShane, who won a prize in the clothespin game.

After the games guests were served doll cakes in the colonial style, apple cider, chocolate and neopolitan ice cream, and candy. Each guest received a gay party balloon, and a handmade favor of a candy cup held by a spookie looking ghost.

Those attending were Peggy Post, Cindy Tolson, Sherry Parker, Chris Smith, Debbie Monnie, Stephanie Nohr, Janice Campazze, M. A. R. S. H. A. House, Sheila and Cheryl Johnson, Cathy and Coleen McShane, Carol and Janice Greil (cousins from West Covina) and little sister 2 1/2-year-old Debra.

The state of Connecticut will soon claim the Ralph Schmidts, of 1220 Maple.

Although the family had planned to move soon to the Valley, celebrating her third year, this new opportunity in the guided missile department of the aircraft division of the Avco Co. came up and the family decided to accept it. They are planning to move on Nov. 11. Accompanying the couple will be their children, Bonnie, 6; Craig, 3; and Sally 5 months.

A toddler's party for the "der-three set" was held for Barbara McEneay, of 1215 Maple, celebrating her third year. The birthday girl served anglefood cake, ice cream, candies, and fruit punch to her little guests. Outside, guests busied themselves on the yard swings, bikes, and outdoor toys. Those attending were Daniel, 10; Michelle and Michael Muck, Judy and Clark Osborne, Kathleen Momo, Kevin and Michael Peters, Craig and Bonnie Schmidt, nephew-Larry McEneay, and sister, 17-months-old Anita, and brother Steve, four weeks.

Pin-the-nose-o-n-the-pumpkin was the game played by Diane Di Santo, of 1315 Cranbrook, and her guests at her fifth birthday party. The affair was held in the garage which was decorated with cornstalks, witches and a d over in one corner was the ill-fated pumpkin made from a large barrel and painted with an orange face. Guests wore gala Halloween costumes and participated in
